

Licence Agreement

The presentations, spreadsheets, PDF documents and other files ('this product') on this CD-ROM are © easilyinteractive.com 2006.

This licence agreement constitutes a legal contract between easilyinteractive.com and the school which has purchased this product. The licence agreement is a site licence for use within a single school.

The licence agreement permits the copying and saving of this material onto any device or medium that is physically located within the school, for the duration of time that the device remains the property of the school.

This licence specifically requires that all parts of this product (including all PowerPoint presentations and individual slides) are removed from computers and storage devices before the computer or storage device is permanently removed from the school.

The licence agreement specifically prohibits copying, distributing or reproducing any presentations, individual slides, documents or parts thereof

- onto an Internet site that may be accessed by people from outside the licensed school, or
- onto any computer or storage device outside the licensed school, or
- onto any network that can be accessed from outside the school

For the avoidance of doubt, in the event that a teacher moves to a new school, this licence agreement specifically prohibits the teacher from taking any part of this product to their new school by any means whatsoever.

Installing this product, or opening any of the files within this product will be taken to indicate agreement with the terms of this licence agreement. If the terms of this agreement are not accepted, please return the product for a full refund.